

To whom it may concern:

As a software engineer with a BA Degree in System Analysis and over nine years of progressive experience, I am confident that I have much abilities to add to your company.

As my enclosed resume states, I am highly skilled in collecting and documenting users' requirements and developing logical and physical specifications. Moreover, I have a track record of researching, evaluating and synthesizing technical information to design, create and test systems.

Following is a list of my attributes which will enable me to contribute to your software projects effectively:

- Extensive experience in OOP and programming including full software development life cycle
- Competent at relational database programming
- Long term interest in front-end development
- Familiar with numerous software development environments, languages and technologies
- Well versed with C#, Javascript, JSON, Ajax, MSSQL Server, Team City

The enclosed resume will provide you with a complete list of my relevant skills and experiences. I am very excited at the prospect of joining your company as a Software Engineer and would like to discuss this in detail. Contact me by mail if you need to reach with me.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Guillermo Murano
